Guidelines for Registered Animal Scientist and Graduate Animal Scientist Examinations

Introduction

The Registered Animal Scientist and Graduate Animal Scientist professional examinations are prescribed by the Council of the Nigerian Institute of Animal Science for Graduates of Animal Science seeking membership of the Institute.

These professional examinations are to be written by all graduates or graduating students of Animal Science departments. The Graduate Animal Scientists' Examination serves as a requirement for becoming a graduate member of the Institute.

Objective of the guidelines

The objective of this document is to provide guidelines to prospective candidates for the process, administration and guidance for the professional examinations. This will eventually lead to admission of persons into the Institute as Registered Animal Scientists or Graduate Animal Scientists.

Objectives of the Examinations

- I. To assess the technical depth / knowledge of the Animal Science graduates.
- II. To assess the extent to which, through, the performance of the candidates, the University has achieved the academic objectives stipulated during the training program.

Definition

Registered Animal Scientist (RAS) or Graduate Animal Scientist (GAS) examinations are professional examinations administered by the Nigerian Institute of Animal Science to test the technical depth/knowledge of the graduates of Animal Science on the subject matter of applicants seeking to be admitted into the Institute.

Exemptions and Exceptions from the respective examinations

The examination is compulsory for all candidates that seek to be registered by the Institute. In a situation where a candidate will be unable to sit for the examination as a result of ill health, the candidate must submit an application for exemption, using the prescribed online form with evidence for the reason(s) adduced for seeking such exemption attached. Exemptions must be sought not later than a week to the examination.

A formal approval must be received for exemption from the examination by the candidate from the Institute, before such a candidate can refrain from writing the examination. Such a candidate will have to sit for the examination at a later date approved by the Institute

A. General conditions for entry into the NIAS RAS/GAS professional examinations

The Graduate Animal Scientists examination qualifies a graduate of Animal Science for admission into the Institute as a Graduate Animal Scientist, while the Registered Animal Scientists' examination qualifies a graduate of Animal Science with 5 years post qualification experience for induction as a Registered Animal Scientist.

Every Registered Animal Scientist (RAS) or Graduate Animal Scientist (GAS) candidate must satisfy all the conditions stated below and any other conditions the Institute may from time to time require to qualify for entry into the examination.

1. Every graduating or fresh Animal Science graduate must sit for the Graduate Animal Science (GAS) examination;
2. Every Graduate Animal Scientist must attend minimum of 2 years Mandatory Continuing Professional Education (MCPE) training to be able to register as a Registered Animal Scientist or else sit for the qualifying examination to be a Registered Animal Scientist;
3. Fresh graduates of Animal Science who did not write the GAS examination must sit for the RAS examination to be inducted as RAS once they attain 5 years post-graduation.
4. Candidates that failed the RAS/GAS examination will re-sit the examination at the next available opportunity;
5. There is no restriction as to the number of times the RAS/GAS examination could be taken by an unsuccessful candidate;
6. Only candidates that passed the RAS/GAS examination will be inducted into the Institute as Registered Animal Scientist or Graduate Animal Scientist. This is in addition to the clearance by the respective University for fresh graduates;
7. Graduates from oversea institutions must furnish NIAS with the details of the accreditation status of their institution to enable the secretariat establish the professional status of the degrees obtained.
